Blood borne Pathogen Training

Blood borne pathogen training is a requirement by the state of Michigan for anyone who might be exposed to blood or potentially infectious materials. This list includes teachers, especially science, shop, and special education teachers who may have to deal with accidents and other support staff like bus drivers, custodians, lunchroom monitors and paraprofessionals. According to central office personnel this kind of training has not taken place in years. After an extensive search, we have purchased an online tutorial service, which is internet-based and requires the employee to listen to a presentation and then pass a quiz. At the end of the year, the company, GCN (Global Compliance Network), burns a CD with all the information on district employees including date of completion. This CD can then be used as documentation of the required training.

You will be required to undergo this training within the school year. To do so, you will go to the district webpage at: <http://www.csdm.k12.mi.us/staffresources.htm>

You will then go to the links:

Our organization user name/code is 28655. When creating your personal ID use your first name, middle initial, and last name with no spaces in between. You will then listen to an approximately half-hour slide presentation followed by a series of questions. Each slide can be advanced when the play button becomes green. At its conclusion, you may print a certificate of completion if you want one for your records.

Sincerely,
